
WOOD PROCUREMENT POLICY

Norbord and its employees are committed to the practice of sustainable forestry through constructive interaction with forest landowners, wood producers, forestry professionals and our customers

Beliefs

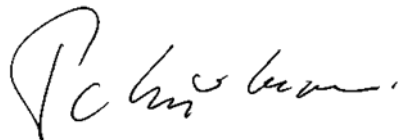

Norbord believes:

- The procurement of forest resources should be managed to optimize the yield of wood fiber while protecting forest health and respecting the needs of other forest users.
- Adherence to applicable forest management regulations, environmental laws and other standards to which we subscribe is the shared responsibility of every Norbord employee involved in wood procurement.
- The health and safety of forest workers must be protected at all times.

Practices

Norbord:

- Ensures that involved employees understand their roles with respect to managing fiber procurement, including the maintenance of Norbord's procurement standards and ethical business practices.
- Uses legally procured and harvested wood;
- Periodically assesses forest management practices on forest lands that supply wood to our facilities in order to foster continual improvement.
- Supports relevant research that advances the practice of sustainable forestry.
- Supports the training of wood producers and promotes the use of forestry professionals for their expertise in the planning and implementation of forest operations.
- Maintains third party chain-of-custody certification in all wood procurement operations.
- Facilitates the sharing of information on sustainable forestry practices with our wood producers or their agents to foster a better understanding of the long-term impacts on regional wood supply and forest health.
- Measures our performance and reports the results to our senior management and the certification bodies to which we subscribe.
